Room 014 is our newest classroom and features advanced technology using Crestron control technology. There are three input panels located in the front where lecturers can connect their laptops with VGA and HDMI connections as well as audio inputs as well. There is a rack on the left hand side of the classroom that includes a desktop computer, a DVD/Blu-Ray player and sound equipment. There are two 60 inch monitors in the room, one on each side of the room.

On top of the rack is a Crestron Touch Panel. Simply press anywhere on the welcome screen to start the system. Once the system starts up, you will have a choice to select the PC, DVD/Blu-Ray player or any of the three wall input panels on the Source Page. Press any of the inputs listed below and that becomes the default source.

The system allows you to actually choose what input you want to show on each monitor. If you press the left monitor button, you can choose Blu-Ray player or PC input on the left monitor. Likewise, if you press the right button, it will choose between the Blu-Ray player and the PC input as well. You can show different inputs on each of the monitors. You can also control the volume for the source by pressing either Vol- or Vol+ on the touch panel.
As noted previously, there are three wall plates located at the front of the room. You can plug in a mini audio jack input, such as laptop audio, or an IPod or other MP3 player. You can also plug in a laptop with either HDMI or VGA connection. And you can also connect the confidence monitor that’s in the room so that you can see what is being projected on the screens for the PC or laptop input.

If you have plugged a laptop into the wall plate, simply go to the source button on the touch panel by pressing the Home button on the touch panel. Then select the wall plate that you are using on the Source Page screen. You can then show your laptop on the monitor screen as well as controlling the audio.

Once you are done with the system, simply press the power button located on the top left hand side of the touch panel. It will ask you whether you want to power the system down. Press the check box to power it down or press home to go back to the touch panel menu.
