

In mid-November, 2016, the week before Thanksgiving and the traditional holiday rush, Jim's Toys, Inc.<sup>1</sup> of Hicksville, Nassau County, NY, realized that the Larry the Lawyer doll has been a much bigger seller than expected as they were flying off the shelf. The Larry doll has various fun features which the public has embraced. For example, if you pull its left arm, it responds with five different Latin phrases such as "res ipsa loquitor" Pulling the right arm causes Larry to say phrases like "A good lawyer knows the law. A great lawyer knows the judge." Tweaking its nose causes the doll to say "See you in court."

Five days before Thanksgiving (November 24), Jim's Toys sold out its entire inventory of 400 dolls. Demand had been so great that there was a waiting list of 500 customers who have each paid a $35.00 deposit for the $119.99 doll to assure they would have it by Christmas/Chanukah. (Assume that Chanukah fell from December 7 to 14 that year). After the waiting list customers, he believed he could sell another 900 or so dolls, at least, at a premium per unit price of at least $200.00. This doll was bigger than the Cabbage Patch Kids and Tickle-Me-Elmo dolls combined.

<sup>1</sup> Jim's Toys was founded by James Tyler's grandfather, Cyrus, when he returned from fighting in World War II. Believing in the American Dream, he moved his family to the suburbs to open a toy store named for his grandson. Tyler's father, Henry, ran the store until the late 1970's. Then, fresh from college with a degree in business administration, Jim began running and ultimately owning the family business. In addition to the usual toys and games one would expect, the store specialized in unique, specialty items which held it in good stead with its bargain-conscious customers when box stores with their deeply discounted prices started cropping up. Thus, it was able to survive as a "mom and pop" store securing those hard-to-find toys and novelties which kept generations of customers loyal.

On Monday, November 28, 2016, the owner of Jim's Toys, James Tyler, contacted the manufacturer of the doll, Doll Sensations, Inc. to order 1,400 new dolls. After speaking with the Sales Director of Doll Sensations, Mary Moore, Tyler forwarded a fax dated November 28, 2016, which read:

"Mary -- In accordance with our conversation, please ship 1,400 Larry the Lawyer dolls to us at $40 per plus $2,500 shipping via UPS overnight. Payment, as always, will be 10 days net. Remember Mary, I have orders coming out of my ears. My Christmas season will be made with these dolls bringing customers into my store. I look forward to their early delivery. Many thanks for your prompt attention. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

s/ Jim"

Ms. Moore responded, by fax, on Tuesday morning, November 29, 2016:

"Jim - This doll has been going like hot cakes. But, we are happy to accept your order. However, due to the Christmas holiday rush, we must charge $80.00 per doll and $4,000 for overnight shipping. Merry Christmas to you and yours.

s/ Mary"

At 8:00 a.m. the next morning, November 30, Tyler faxed a response to Moore:

“Mary - That’s highway robbery but for my business to survive, I need those dolls yesterday. I will pay what it takes to make my customers happy. You have me over a barrel so you have a deal. Send those dolls out today. Bah humbug!

s/ Jim”

Based upon the foregoing, Tyler immediately rented an illuminated sign for the front of his store (at a cost of $750) which proclaimed in large red letters, “JIM’S TOYS HAS THE LARRY THE LAWYER DOLL! DO YOUR HOLIDAY SHOPPING AT JIM’S!!” The response was immediate and positive. Customers flocked to Jim’s.

Based upon his correspondence with Moore, Tyler expected the dolls on December 2 or 3, at the latest. They did not arrive. Despite his regular calls and faxes to Moore and her staff over the ensuing period during Chanukah and leading up Christmas, the dolls were not received until December 29. During the time leading up to Chanukah and Christmas, his customers grew despondent, angry and disillusioned.

He learned that the late arrival was not the fault of UPS. The problem, Jim surmised, was that the Doll Sensations factory could not keep up with the demand and was unable to timely fill the order. Jim believed that Mary knew this all along but did not tell him. He also believed that many other Doll Sensations customers did not receive their orders for the same reason.

As a result, Tyler had to refund all of the deposits from all of his customers on the waiting list. Over the next several months, Jim’s Toys had virtually no customers as word of mouth spread over its failure to provide the Larry dolls. By, the end of April, 2017, Jim's Toys was forced to close its doors.

To avoid bankruptcy and to do the right thing, Jim paid off all of the store's creditors but he exhausted his life savings in doing so. Now, he is working as a manager at the local Walmart in its toy department and is barely making ends meet. When Jim's Toys was open, and before anyone heard of the Larry dolls, he was able to save between $5 and 6,000 per month after all store and personal expenses. His monthly salary was $6,000.

Jim has come to you and told you his story and wants to retain you to sue Doll Sensations and all of those responsible for destroying his family's business and legacy.
