Message from Editor-in-Chief

Dear Hofstra Law Review Alumnae/i:

I am honored to introduce myself as the Editor-in-Chief for Volume 34 of the Hofstra Law Review. I am also pleased to inform you that we are making great strides in our alumni relations, picking up where Volume 33 left off.

In March, the Law Review amended its bylaws to create the new position of Alumni Affairs Editor, so we can foster closer relationships with all of you. I hope to continue the great success of the Hofstra Law Review in the 2005-06 term. Whatever success we do enjoy would not be possible today without all of your hard work in the past. That is why it is my privilege to be a part of this continuing outreach. Please lend us your suggestions and comments, and I hope to see you all soon at our First Annual Cocktail Reception.

ALUMNI AFFAIRS EDITOR AT YOUR SERVICE

I have recently been selected to serve as the first Alumni Affairs Editor of Hofstra Law Review. I am looking forward to forging a strong relationship between the current and former members of the Hofstra Law Review, and am excited at the prospect of serving both communities. My first task is of course this newsletter, which I hope will increasingly serve as a means for the alumnae/i to communicate with one another. I intend to have an active Class Notes column in the Fall newsletter, which will include whatever information you would like to share with your colleagues. The success of this column depends entirely upon your involvement, so please email or call with updates regarding your career, personal life, weddings, babies, etc. It's always great to hear what old friends are up to, and the column can be an excellent source for networking.

Additionally, the Law Review will be planning a cocktail reception in the fall in Manhattan for Hofstra Law Review alumnae/i to reunite with one another, and for our current staff to mix and mingle with those who have paved the way. This is our way of thanking you for your past contributions to Hofstra Law Review, and recognizing that a great deal of our prestige comes from the lasting impression you leave on the world as a graduate of Hofstra Law School.

In addition to the other fun tasks of editing, source gathering, and cite checking that accompany every position on Law Review, I will also maintain the alumnae/i database to ensure that we have current contact information for each of you. To update your information at any time, please email HLRALum@gmail.com.

Finally, I encourage your input, suggestions, comments, and complaints. Most of all, please email with updates on your life that you would like me to pass along to your colleagues. Never hesitate to contact me. I am here to serve you and I am looking forward to doing so.

Best Regards,
Mary I. Bresnan

2005 Law Review Annual Banquet

The Law Review Banquet was held on April 7, 2005 at the Coral House overlooking scenic Milburn Lake. A number of distinguished professors were in attendance, and incoming Dean Aaron Twerski addressed the crowd.

Outgoing Editor-in-Chief, Justin DeCamp gave his farewell remarks, and incoming Editor-in-Chief, Adam Wactlar introduced the new Board.

As always, awards were given to outstanding members of the staff. The Staff Member of the Year Award was renamed the Susann Duffy Award in honor of Susann's professionalism, excellence, and warmth. Jonathan Canfield was this year's recipient. Jonathon was a standout not only for his impeccable cite checking, but also for his constant willingness to assist others in any way possible.

This year, the Robert Johnston Outstanding Articles Editor Award was created to honor Robert Johnston's enormous contributions to the Law Review. Robert was present at the banquet and applauded as Beverly Reyes received the first award. Beverly's unparalleled mastery of the Bluebook and devotion to her duties as Articles Editor made her a natural pick for this honor.

The evening was filled with fabulous company, excellent food, and plentiful drinks. We look forward to seeing you at next year's banquet.

Class Notes

Please send updates on your professional and personal life that you would like to share with your colleagues. I look forward to this becoming a forum for alumnae/i to stay connected and informed.
